Dear Mr. Heatherman,

A few things have been bothering me since our meeting on December 2nd. I got the feeling that you thought we were abused as children. That is far from the truth. We were spanked, but not that often and it was only when we had done something wrong. My father might not be very good at expressing his feelings, but we grew up knowing we were loved.

I have enclosed a letter that I wrote to Mom and Dad for their 40th wedding anniversary (May 3, 1992).

You asked us to describe Dad, and I don't know if it was ever answered. My father was strict, but he also had a sense of humor, and although he never said it often I do know that he loved all of us.

I'm also enclosing some of the notes I'd written down.

Sincerely,

Twila Wentz

P.S. I strongly believe, as does my whole family that P.J. is not responsible for Frank or Denise's deaths. I don't know what P.J.'s relationship with Frank was like, but I do know that he loved Denise and the kids and would never do anything to hurt any of them.
